(1) To the extent a Covered Employer seeks to pay the lower Living Wage rate for employers providing a qualifying Health Benefit Plan during the initial eligibility period applicable to new employees, the Living Wage requirement may be complied with as follows during the eligibility period:

i. A Covered Employer may only qualify to pay the Living Wage rate applicable to employees with a Health Benefit Plan for a term not to exceed the first ninety (90) days of the new initial employee’s eligibility period, said term commencing on the employee’s date of hire.

ii. If the Covered Employee is not provided with a qualifying Health Benefit Plan within ninety (90) days of initial hire, then the Covered Employer, commencing on the ninety-first (91) day of the new employee’s initial eligibility period, must commence to pay the applicable Living Wage rate for Covered Employees without a Health Benefit Plan and must retroactively pay the Covered Employee the difference between the two Living Wage rates for the term of the eligibility period.

the requirements of this section as stated in the notice or determination of non-compliance. Once the determination is made by DBD, the notice or determination of non-compliance will stand. 3.1 SCOPE

The purpose of this contract is to establish a group of bidders who are qualified to perform bird control services, primarily pigeon mitigation, for Miami-Dade County. This solicitation will pre-qualify bidders and bird control methods.

3.2 PURPOSE

Bird control is the generic name for methods to mitigate or deter pest birds from landing, roosting and nesting in specific areas. Bird control is important because pest birds can create health-related problems through their feces including histoplasmosis (a lung disease), cryptococcosis (potentially fatal fungal disease), and psittacosis (an infectious disease that can be transmitted from non-human animals to humans). Bird droppings may also cause damage to property and equipment.

Bird control is also important to aviation safety. A bird strike is a collision between an airborne animal and a man-made vehicle, especially an aircraft. The term is also used for bird deaths resulting from collisions with man made structures such as power lines, towers and wind turbines. Bird strikes are a significant threat to flight safety, and have caused a number of accidents with human casualties. Most accidents occur when the bird hits the windscreen or flies into the engines. These cause annual damages that have been estimated at $400 million within the United States of America alone and up to $1.2 billion to commercial aircraft worldwide.

3.3 METHODS

There are many methods of bird control. Bidders are not required to perform all methods described in this solicitation to participate in the contract. Bidders are also encouraged to offer new bird control methods. Bird control methods can be classified as exclusion controlling, or deterrent methods. The goal of these methods is to exclude, control, and/or deter the target birds without damaging the aesthetics or the structure and to reduce the bird threshold to an acceptable level. There is no single bird exclusion, bird control and/or bird deterrent device that remedies every bird problem.

3.3.1 Bird Spikes: Also known as anti-roosting spikes or roost modification, bird control spikes are used to deter birds from perching or roosting in specific areas. Bird control deterrent spikes are usually around 1 foot long and work by reducing the area available for birds to land on. This forces larger varieties of birds, such as seagulls, pigeons, crows and vultures to land elsewhere. As the birds do not come into contact with the spikes, the birds go unharmed. Described as one of the most effective types of stand-alone bird deterrent, bird control spikes can be placed along ledges, walls or rain gutters, or on top of commercial signage, street lighting, cameras, or fences. Spiking is an exclusion method of bird control.

3.3.2 Bird Shock: Bird Shock is a low-profile ledge deterrent system that is effective against all species of pest birds utilizing the principle of fear and flight, conditioning birds to stay away. The system can be installed in ledges, beams, signs, roofs, parapets, etc. Bird Shock Systems use a harmless electrical shock (similar to a static electricity) that is transmitted through the bird's feet when it completes the circuit by touching hot and ground wires simultaneously. Shocking is a deterrent method of bird control.

3.3.3 Netting: Bird netting consists of strategically placing and securing a net to prevent birds from reaching certain areas. Netting is an exclusion method of bird control.

3.3.4 Application of Bird Repellents: Bird repellents appeal to a bird’s sense of smell, taste and touch to deter them from unwanted areas. Repellents create uncomfortable landing areas for pest birds. Repellents are not harmful to birds or humans.

3.3.5 Trapping: Trapping is a flock dispersal bird control measure that can be effective at reducing bird populations. This control measure must be performed on a routine basis over a long period of time. Traps must be installed in areas where birds primarily feed. Prior to setting the traps, the birds should be fed for several weeks. Every trap must be well supplied with food and water. After the birds are used to feeding, the cages should be set. By allowing the birds to eat and freely enter and exit the traps, once the traps are set, a higher percentage of birds will be caught. After the traps are set, the traps should be checked every two to three days so that the captured birds can be removed.

3.3.6 Placing Visual Scare Devices: The origins of visual bird scare devices stem from traditional ‘scarecrow’ theories. The scarecrow concept is used to implement solutions that utilize traditional predator figures (owls, wolves, hawks, etc.) holographic materials, laser technology, and/or scientific research to frighten and intimidate birds.

3.3.7 Tension Wire: Tension wire is used to deter birds from landing and/or roosting on exposed building elements by creating an unstable landing site; thus, forcing birds to move to other locations. Tension wire is a landing deterrent, not a barrier. The main component is a nylon coated stainless steel wire that has a spring tensioner attached between stainless steel posts. The main advantage of a tension wire system is that it is hard to see. The use of tension wire provides an effective, yet non-obtrusive method of deterring many bird species from landing, roosting and/or nesting on roof peaks/ledges, beams, pipes, signs and parapets.

3.4 MIAMI-DADE TRANSIT (MDT) GUIDELINES

3.4.1 Generally, the specifications that will accompany a Spot Market Quotation request issued by MDT will specify the bird control method to be used, a delineation of treatment area, a guarantee period and other relevant points for thorough and humanitarian bird control.

3.4.2 When the specifications call for the use of trapping, or other the flock dispersant method, there shall be a pre-baiting phase of approximately one month, a baiting phase of approximately one month, and a maintenance phase of specified length, unless otherwise specified in the Spot Market quotation request. Strict interpretation of the manufacturer’s recommendations is expected.
3.4.3 When an exclusion method is the chosen, MDT will define the area of exclusion in linear feet for the use of spikes or peg and wire, etc., or in square footage for the use of netting. MDT will determine the quality of materials as well as any other features germane to quality exclusionary work.

3.4.4 When the use of repellents is the chosen method of treatment MDT will define the square or linear footage as well as the type of repellent to be used.

Any County employee or member of his or her immediate family seeking to contract with the County shall seek a conflict of interest opinion from the Miami-Dade County Ethics Commission prior to submitting a Bid response or application of any type to contract with the County by the employee or his or her immediate family and file a copy of that request for opinion and any opinion or waiver from the Board of County Commissioners with the Clerk of the Board. The affected employee shall file with the Clerk of the Board a statement in a form satisfactory to the Clerk disclosing the employee’s interest or the interest of his or her immediate family in the proposed contract and the nature of the intended contract at the same time as or before submitting a Bid, response, or application of any type to contract with the County. The Bidder confirms that this Bid is made without prior understanding, agreement, or connection with any corporation, firm, or person submitting a Bid for the same goods and/or services and in all respects is without collusion, and that the Bidder will accept any resultant award. Further, the undersigned acknowledges that award of a contract is contingent upon vendor registration. Failure to register as a vendor within the specified time may result in your firm not being considered for award.

Pursuant to Miami-Dade County Ordinance 94-34, any individual, corporation, partnership, joint venture or other legal entity having an officer, director, or executive who has been convicted of a felony during the past ten (10) years shall disclose this information prior to entering into a contract with or receiving funding from the County.
